This Newsletter

It has been a year since the last one. For those who have not received my newsletter before (I've been writing them off and on since 1994), it is an opportunity for me to remind you that I am still in business and that I have other services. Also, it gives me a chance to express my appreciation for your business.

Thank you!

Black Hole

An object so massive, light cannot escape from it.

Church and State

There's some talk about what the First Amendment meant concerning the separation of church and state. While there are those who favor a Taliban style Christianity, imposed from the top, I feel it would be counter productive.

Even though most would agree that there is only one God, no one wants to be forced to worship another's idea of It or be prevented from the worship of their own.

Fascism

A totalitarian governmental system led by a dictator and emphasizing an aggressive nationalism, militarism, and often racism. (Webster's College Dictionary)

Something we don't want!

My Services

Window Cleaning

I'm back, but this time with a headset.

Glass Tinting

The answer to your sunlight, energy, fading, and glare problems.

Tutoring and Teaching

As in the past few years, I'm teaching GED math and tutoring most everything from preschool to high school. I seem to be specializing in kids learning to adjust their natural talents to their school's requirements (see Indigo Children below).

Miscellaneous

Power Washing, some types of home repair & cleaning (especially during the winter).

A BLACK HOLE,
AS SEEN FROM SPACE.

Silence

The white space between words and lines. Listening instead of formulating a response. The distance between stars. My son's car, after it won't start on a rainy day. The space between thoughts. The moment two people connect.

Indigo Children

Children, who in school seem learning disabled, unable to concentrate, who find the work boring, difficult or undoable, and the teachers overbearing, yet at home are extremely intelligent, creative, and intuitive, are probably Indigo children. These children act like royalty and are very strong willed, all the while being empathic, in tune, and compassionate. They typically care immensely for, and bond easily with, plants and animals. These unusual, sometimes very difficult children are here to help us. Perhaps you've noticed that the world is not working so well. They are here to help us fix it.

However, they need our help to find their way. They operate so differently from the way things work here in our world, that they often feel like "strangers in a strange land." If we can help them cope, they will help us survive.
